EARLY MORNING FIRE.

Roused from Sleep to Find Their Room Filled with Smoke-Rapid Spread of the Flames-A Rush for the Fire-Escapes, with a Narrow Escape from Fatalities-Most of the Sufferers Fortunately Insured.

A fire which started in the bottom of the elevator in the five-story flat at 150 West One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street at 4.30 o'clock this morning, caused intense alarm among the twenty families living in the

Mr. Lepine, who occupied rooms on the third floor with his family, left the building at 4 o'clock, and at that time there was no fire or smoke observed in the building.

The alarm was first given by Emma Jackson, daughter of Thomas Jackson, who lives on the fifth floor. She was awakened by smoke, which had filled her room and almost suffocated her. Her mother was awakened by her baby clutching at her throat, and her room was also filled with smoke.

As soon as the alarm was sounded many occupants of the flats, rushed for the first supposed its to be, in which he delinguage at visitors and indulged in gloes and jokes of all songs, when he manifested great religious fervor and joined them in prayer and song.

Mrs. James Brown, a tenant on the fifth floor, had her household goods almost entirely destroyed. She is a poor woman and her property was not insured.

The occupants of the rear rooms on the fourth, third and second floors all sustained stight damage from water. They all held insurance policies. The tenants occupying the front rooms suffered no damage.

Janitor William Beech said that he had been unable to determine how the fire originated. There had been no one near the foot of the elevator for several hours previous to the fire except Lepine, who passed by it when he went out at 4 o'clock. If there had been fire at that time Lepine would have discovered it.

A WIDEAWAKE OFFICER.

held by Justice Nacher to await the action of the Grand Jury. Thornton quarrelled with the conductor first and then robbed him of his watch. The facts in the case have already appeared in The WORLD.

Thornton was captured by Officer Brinkerhoff, of Capt. Short's command, at the Broadway ferry just as he was about to escape to New York.

Since that time it has been discovered that he is wanted by the New York police upon a charge of stealing a truck-load of whiskey from John Brown, of Ridge street, by whom he was employed to ship it from a large wholesale nouse by the People's belaware line. Instead of doing so he drove to the corner of Kent avenue and North Eighth street, where he stored it and then furnished the firm with a forged slipping receipt, and came to Brooklyn to sell the whiskey. In the mean time he disposed of the liquor at $1.25 per gallon. The lot sold consisted of five barrels, two half-barrels and four tra-gallon packages, valued at $700. John four ten-gallon packages, valued at $700. John Kelly, of No. 124 Cherry street, New York, was

The case was placed in the hands of Detectives MeNaughton and Hanley, of the New York Central Office, who fastened the guilt upon Thornton. The latter admitted having stolen the liquor, but could not tell the names of the persons to whom he had gold it. The New York detectives say that Thornton has been arrested before for larceny.

BRIDEGROOMS HOME AGAIN.

They Will Play the Athletics at Washington

The Bridegrooms are at home. They arrived last night with thankful hearts that their Westers trip had ended and with pleasant anticipations of the sojourn they will have at home for some week to come. All expressed themselves as highly pleased at having got back, and said that they would give Brooklynites a sample of good ball dethe fact that certain members of the team are the head of the ranks when they meet the Athletics the head of the ranks when they meet the Athletics at Washington Park this afternoon, and his cheery voice will put new life into the coys. The heat and several other causes combined rendered the experiences of the team while in the West anything but pleasant, and those who have seen them play in the cities they visited say that they deserve the highest credit for the good showing made. Almost every member of the club met with some mishap, and Precident Byrne is more than pleased with the general conduct and work of all.

To-day's game will put the players on their mettle, for the Athletics, who will oppose them, are striving hard for the pennant and play all they know how, particularly when they meet Brooklyn. The Bridegrooms are now not content with any position but first and mean to head the procession

This aroused the hatred and enmity of Olivia, because she was left to bloom alone. To obtain revenge and injure her rival she wrote a number of letters couched in selected language, signed with the names of different young men. They were addressed to Miss Donnelly and dropped in the streets where they were sure to be found. The evident intention was to apread the belief that Miss Donnelly was in constant receipt of communications of this character. The work was traced to the prisoner.

The "Banner Gang's" Victim.

The "Banner Gang" murder of Charles Mc aughlin, of No. 421 West Thirty-second street, was investigated by Justice Ford at Jefferson Market yesterday. Denis Casey, aged seventeen, of No. 427 West Twenty-sixtn street; Joseph Tenny,

No. 427 West Twenty-sixth street; Joseph Tenny, aged twenty, of No. 403 Eleventh avenue, and George Kelly, aged thirty-six, of No. 258 Ninth avenue, were arraigned.

Frank McLauchlin, a brother of the deceased, testified that he was in his brother's company the night of July?. A crowd of young men, all connected with the "Banner Gang," was lounging near the door of their house. The witness did not care to go up to his home slone, as he had to pass the gang, so Brady and his brother Charles went with him. Charles went first and was struck on the head with a caseball bat.

"Who hit him?"

"Who hit him?"
"Keily. Casey and Tenny did not hit him."
Brady was called and gave similar testimony.
Thomas Plant said he saw Kelly strike the fatal

The New York World is constantly outdoing itself, not to speak of its contemporaries. After having convicted rascals by the score and stopped a host of abuses in high places and found lost men, women and children in great numbers it now announces that it has engaged a thoroughly trained physician to visit and minister to poor people in the city of New York. Only those who realize the suffering by the poor classes in our great cities can appreciate the amount of good this latest move on the part of the world's greatest viate. Fire Commissioner Henry D. Purroy is to bid farewell to the County Democracy today. His letter resigning the leadership of the Twenty-fourth Ward organization and severing his connection with the County and Executive committees has been prepared. It will be published in the morning papers. Commissioner Purroy, in speaking to representative of THE EVENING WORLD this morning, said :

"I have written a letter resigning my nembership in the County Democracy organization. It is now in a rough draft, and I wish to read it over before making it public. " I will not have it ready until very late this afternoon-possibly not before 5 o'clock." "Have you any objections to giving THE EVENING WORLD a synopsis of your letter?"

'I would much prefer for you to wait until the communication is ready, and you must excuse me from an interview on the subject. The letter will explain itself, and I will endeavor to state the reasons for my action in a plain and straightforward manner. ner.

"I will say this, however, that my letter of resignation will indulge in no personal-

"Do you intend to re-enter Tammany

It is hinted that Commissioner Purroy's letter will be a lengthy one, and that while he will not arraign the County Democracy leaders as individuals he will find much fault with the relitical management of the County with the relitical management of the County. with the political management of the County with the political management of the County Democracy machine.

Police Justice Maurice J. Power, the leader of the County Democracy, does not attach much importance to Commissioner Purroy's secession. The Judge intimates in an interview that Commissioner Purroy has been estranged from the councils of the organization for some time, and the disaffection has tion for some time, and the disaffection has caused little surprise and not much comment among the leaders.

CLEVER FORGERS CAUGHT

CROOKS WHO HAVE REAPED RICH HAR-VESTS AT THE RACES.

How Pool Tickets Were Counterfelted, the Signatures Forged, the Winners Filled In and the Money Collected Ahead of the Good Tickets-Once Mysterious Mispayments Accounted For.

Almost ever since the present racing season commenced the bookmakers and pool-sellers at the several race tracks have been victimized to the extent of hundreds of dollars by clever counterfeits of their tickets, which in the hurry of cashing in after the races have been passed unnoticed.

The success of the counterfeiters has been so uniform that the bookmakers had to take all possible precautions to prevent forgeries, and to this end had their tickets printed by the American Bank Note Company; but they discovered recently that even these were counterfeited and they were paying bets that counterfeited and they were paying bets that were never made.

The counterfeiting of the American Bank Note Company's usine of tickets has resulted disastrously to the industrious crooks who were playing the game, and they are now behind iron bars.

The chief is John D. McDonald, alias Malcolm Hall, alias Stevenson, He is known to Chief Inspector Byrne as a professional thief and was arrested for shoplifting in a Broadway store about a year ago.

colm Hall, alias Stevenson. He is known to Chief Inspector Byrne as a professional thief and was arrested for shoplifting in a Broadway store about a year ago.

He was on tail at the time of his apprehension for this offense.

He is thirty-two years of age, a bartender by occupation, and gives his residence as 323 West Forty-first street.

He is a slim, well-dressed fellow; with dark hair and eyes and a black mustache.

His companion is thirty-five years old, a rubber stamp manufacturer, residing at 256 East Fifteenth street, and is said to be known to Pinkerton's Detective Bureau as a professional crook. He gave his name when arrested as Ed Carrington, but is known also by the name of Ed Craig.

The apprehension of these crooks was brought about in this way:

President James Macdonough, of the American Bank-Note Company, communicated the fact to Inspector Byrnes that forged tickets bearing the trademark of his company had been issued and were being imposed upon the bookmakers and pool-sellers at Monmouth Park, and he detailed Detective Sergts. Hawley, Aloncle and Killilea to work up the case.

Though unable to find where the forged tickets were printed, the detectives discovered that wood-cuts had been stereotyped at a place in Nassau street, and from the stereotyper learned that the engraver was Hugh Murphy, of 23 Ann street, who resides at Tompkinsville, S. I.

Going to Murphy's place yesterday morning, Detectives Hanley and Aloncle found that Murphy had engraved the plates, and discovered two plates which McDonald and Carrington were to call for at noon. Both were counterfeits of the American Bank-Note Company's issues.

One was a counterfeit of the tickets issued by J. Cotton & Co., the bookmakers, of Church street, and the other of J. Connors & Co., whose office is in West Twenty-eighth street.

Murphy said that photographs on wood of the tickets were brought to him to be engraved, and electrotypes of the wood engraving were afterwards made.

the tickets were brought to him to be en-graved, and electrotypes of the wood en-graving were afterwards made. In the case of Cotton's ticket a "plug" was inserted in the centre of the plate and He wore a dark sack coat, knee breeches and striped stockings. His calves were There was also found another block with a photograph of a mutuel pool ticket to be engraved, showing that the two crooks were engaged in a wholesale swindle of the race-track gamblers.

The detectives left the plats there and shadowed the entrance to 23 Ann street until their game arrived.

They had not long to wait, for McDonald and Carrington soon put in an appearance and were recognized from the description and were recognized from the description given.

When they came downstairs they were caught red-handed, with the counterfeit plates in their possession.
Both men were brought before Justice Kilbreth in the Tombs Police Court this morning, where complaint was preferred by President James Macdonough and Manager Theodore H. Lee, of the American Bank-Note Company, who were accompanied by their counsel, Mr. Evarts, of Evarts, Choate & Beaman.

Justice Kilbreth directed that the com-plaint be made under section 541 of the Pena Code, which makes the possession of forged plaint be made under section 541 of the Penal Code, which makes the possession of forged plates a felony.

The modus operandi of the crooks, with their counterfe tickets was as follows:

They had their tickets printed in tints exactly like the original and would stand by a bookmaker's stand, catch the numbers of the several bets and when the announcement of the winner was made would stamp the numbers of the winning bets upon the tickets, fill in the name of the horse with blue pencil, get in the line and cash in ahead of the good tickets.

Not only was the body of the ticket, with all its fancy scroll work, counterfeited, but so were the stamps of the bookmakers on the back, even to the erusure with red ink of the line announcing the place of business of J. Connors & Co.

When arraigned before Justice Kilbreth McDonald pleaded that he was innocent of any guilty knowledge in the matter, and Engraver Murphy, who was present, said that all his negotiations were held with Carrington.

The latter pleaded not guilty, and said that rington.

The latter pleaded not guilty, and said that as a rubber-stamp maker he was only filling an order for a customer, whose name he re-an order for a customer, whose name he refused to give.

Both men were held without bail for examination on Monday at 2 F. M.

There is little doubt of the guilt of Carrington, as the detectives are very certain that he is the same man who manufactured the rubber stamp with which the pool tickets were made which victimized Cotton & Co. to the tune of $600 at the Jerome Park meeting.
